

Program Specific Outcome

Under Graduates in Health Care Management

A Bachelor of Science (BSc) in Health Care Management program aims to provide students with the skills and knowledge to manage healthcare organizations. Students learn about the structure of the healthcare sector, how to manage teams, and how to develop and implement management strategies.

Program outcomes

- Understanding of healthcare sector : - Students learn about the structure and organization of healthcare organizations
- Management skills : - Students learn how to manage teams, lead teams, and build cross-functional teams
- Management strategies : - Students learn how to develop and implement management strategies to ensure efficient delivery of healthcare services
- Clinical research methodologies : - Students learn about clinical research methodologies
- Career opportunities : - Healthcare managers oversee the operations and administration of healthcare organizations
- Healthcare managers ensure high - quality patient care, optimize resources, and comply with industry standards